COMMENTS FROM THE TOWN MANAGER'S OFFICE

Tax collections to date total $86,500.00 which is slightly less than the amount for the same period last year. The weekly average of payments has been very uniform since the tax bills were mailed out. The rate will have to increase during these last five weeks of the year and the bulk of the payments will be made during the last two weeks of the year. Excise tax collections are $503.80 ahead of the first eleven months of 1963. The total to date this year is $21,436.11 and last year it was $20,632.61 for the first eleven months.

The first real signs of winter were felt this past week with the snow and cold weather. Most of the equipment is ready for winter and most of the jobs for summer were completed. The biggest job that was not done was the reconstruction of the Chapman Road off from the North West Bethel road. The road was to have been built with Town Road Improvement Funds from the state but the work will now have to wait until another year.

The State Aid Construction on Route 35 that was to be reconstructed this year will also have to be done next year. The state was not able to do the job this year due to a legal matter that must be resolved. I have been assured that it will be one of the first jobs for the state to do next spring.

The water level at West Bethel is just about the same as it was last week. People on the system should continue to conserve the water. The source will remain at a low level until it is replenished by nature. The water level is low everywhere and everyone must suffer through it.

SUNDAY RIVER SKIWAY READY FOR WINTER

With eight inches of snow now on the top of the mountain, Sunday River Skiway is looking up for winter, and all the local signs point toward a snowy one. The Skiway has been graded and hauled and groomed, and a new trail off Lower Cascades highlights the changes made during the summer. Below the top of the lower lift, the "cut-off" leaves Cascades and roughly parallels it, rejoining Cascades at the final pitch just above the lodge. In the process it bypasses the troublesome "waterfall" section and covers one-half mile of exciting and interesting terrain.

The Mixing bowl, last year's new bonus for the novice skier, is ready and waiting, the moving is done on upper Sunday Punch, and the last T bars are now being attached to the cable.

HOLIDAY MOTORISTS URGED TO EXERCISE CAUTION

Holiday weekend motorists have been asked by Governor John H. Reed and highway safety officials to exercise caution in anticipated heavy travel.

In a joint statement issued by Governor Reed, State Police Chief Robert Marx and Torben K. Andersen, chairman of the Maine Highway Safety Committee, reference was made to the four deaths of last year during the 102-hour period beginning at 6:00 p. m. on Wednesday.

Governor Reed urged travelers to "heed traffic laws, exercise courtesy at all times and help to make possible a special reason for giving thanks."

Andersen said that hunting trips and family visits coupled with early darkness and frost on the roadways contributed to the traffic hazards. "It behooves each and every one of us to adjust speeds to conditions, avoid following too closely to the vehicles ahead, and drive defensively at all times," said Andersen.

According to Colonel Marx: "Uncertain road and weather conditions at this time of year pose a special problem for the motorist. Those planning to drive to family gatherings on this traditional family holiday will do well to plan trips well in advance, leaving extra time for possible delays on the way."

The State Police Chief emphasized the danger of staying too long behind the wheel, a driving error which has claimed many lives during holiday periods.

Dear friends,

A writer suggests that we sit down at Thanksgiving time and list the things we have to be thankful for. If everyone would do this, we believe there would be more happiness and much less complaint.

We are especially thankful for our friends...we are also thankful for the many kindnesses that have come to us during the past year.

May your Thanksgiving be a happy one!

Sincerely,

John T. Tully

HOW TO CUT HEAT COSTS

5 tips that can help you get more warmth from your heating oil dollar

1. Keep your oil burner clean and properly adjusted. And use today's Shell Heating Oil. It contains a special additive called FOA-5X. This additive helps keep critical burner passages free from clogging—assures better firing.
2. Shut your thermostat back when you go to bed at night—save significantly on your heating oil bill.
3. Be sure your burner has sufficient air. Oil needs lots of air to burn properly. Don't block off air supply to burner. Don't allow dust and lint to accumulate on air intake openings.
4. Don't block hot air vents or cold air return ducts with furniture.
5. Stop air leaks around poorly fitted windows by using weather-stripping or storm windows.

ty and on to nation by nation. How can we express this love, faith and hope? There again, numerous paths are open to each individual. For me, prayer opens the door of expression. Verse and song help to keep that door open. Music is a universal language. In any language, music has mood, expression and meaning.

On the night our Lord Messiah was born in Bethlehem, angels appeared in the sky, and sang "Glory to God in the heaven above, and on earth peace to men of good will."

Let us spend our days this Christmas season singing our praises to God. How better to experience the true meaning of Christ's birthday than to join with others and sing. Through giving of yourselves you can obtain the faith and hope of love and peace and bring Christian fellowship to your community.

So today and join the choir of your choosing. They have faith and so will you, because by giving you will receive tenfold by fellowship.

Have you ever read George Eliot's poem called "Stradivarius"? Stradivarius was the famous old violin maker, whose violins, nearly two centuries old, are almost worth their weight in gold today. Says Stradivarius in the poem:

"If my hand slackened, I should rob God—since He is fullest good, Leaving a blank instead of violins. He could not make Antonio Stradivari's violins Without Antonio."

You are God's opportunity in your day. —R. E. Neighbour

Contrary to the popular myth the Pilgrims of Plymouth didn't prepare the first Thanksgiving dinner. And no turkey was served, either.

Popham colonists, in fact, were the original Thanksgiving hosts and their guests were the Abnaki Indians. The Popham Colony was established in what is now Maine, thirteen years before the pilgrims planted their feet on Plymouth's Rock.

And the feast was a shore dinner, much like the present day shore dinner which State of Mainers have made famous wherever gourmets congregate. Plymouth, Mass., may take a dim view of the claim, but historians support it.

The chronicler who originated Plymouth's claim to original colonization and adapted the Thanksgiving concept to this theory must have indeed been a promotional agent of unquestionable genius.

Peace-loving Abnaki Indians who named Maine's great for-estlands made their winter home well inland, on the shores of great rivers, but summers were spent along the rocky coast.

In this ocean-side Shangri-la a paradise of ideal weather and abundant, truly delectable foods—they gathered seafoods, feasted regularly, and prepared winter stores.

Some 500 fascinating shell heaps which archeologists say are between 1,000 and 5,000 years old, still dot the Maine coast as fitting evidence of this Indian habit.

British Captain George Popham and his colonists were introduced to Maine seafoods as soon as they first approached the coast, and thence continually as they progressed toward the mouth of the Kennebec River, their pre-determined destination.

Day-by-day accounts of their activities repeatedly tell of their amazement at the amount and size of fish found along the coast.

Then, on August second, 1607 these adventurers first encountered the Maine lobster. In shallow water, the men found the bottom littered alive with these delectable crustaceans.

A colony historian recorded the meeting with evident enthusiasm. He wrote: "At Lo-wattir in on hower kild near . . . 50 . . . great lobsters you shall see them where they lay in in shold watter nott past a yearld deep & with a great hooke mad faste to a staffe you shall hithe up their are great store of them you may near Lad a Ship with them."

Abnaki Indians were first encountered near Pemaquid and once convinced of the colonists' peaceful intent, Indians hugged the whites in this brief first meeting.

The following day, the ship's company landed on an island where they preacher delivered a sermon "gyvinge god thanks" for their safe journey; happy meeting with the Indians; and a nest home in a land of such a plentiful food supply.

Once their destination was achieved, construction of a

Bashabab brother and others, were on the further side of the river, and the next day would come and visit him.

"There came two canoes to the fort, in which was Nahanada and his wife, and Skidwars, and the Bashabab brother, and one other called Am-enquin, a Sagamo; all whom the president feasted and entertained with all kindness, both that day and the next, which being Sunday, the president carried them with him to the place of public prayers, which they were at both morning and evening, attending yt with great reverence and silence."

Such, then, was the real beginning of our American tradition. The original Thanksgiving menu—featuring the Maine lobster and including clams, oysters and assorted species of salt-water fish—was a far cry from the Thanksgiving menu most Americans have come to associate with this great holiday.
